

A top-down photograph showcasing a variety of natural materials. In the upper left, a cluster of white, shell-like discs rests on a light-colored, woven fabric. To their right, two pieces of light-colored wood are stacked. The lower right features a large, textured bundle of dried straw or reeds. Scattered across the center are numerous seashells of various shapes and colors, including a prominent white, spiky shell. On the left side, a roll of light-colored, textured fabric is visible. The entire scene is set against a plain, light background.
